Connections to Church Teaching and Tradition

In the First Reading, as God seeks to keep the first man from being alone, the nature of God is revealed as well as that of humankind. Not only do human beings need to be in relationship with God and others, but it is God's nature to be in relationship with humankind. The Compendium of the Social Doctrine of the church states, "The relationship between God and is reflected in the relational and social dimension of human nature" (110).

Once man was formed, God was concerned about social relationships. Not wanting man to dwell alone, he created various animals and birds that the first man named. Then God formed a woman from the rib of the man. "The Compendium of the Social Doctrine of the Church states "The human person is essentially a social being because God, who created humanity, willed it so" (149).

In the second part of today's Gospel, we hear of people bring their children to Jesus. Jesus' embrace of the children is about more than his love for young. When Jesus welcomed the children to him, he held close those who had no rights in that society. The Church Fathers note in Gaudium et spes that Christians are to be united with those who are troubled and oppressed. The Second Vatican Council document states: "The joys and hopes, the grief and anguish of the people of our time, especially of those who are poor or afflicted, are the joys and hopes, the grief and anguish of the followers of Christ as well" (1).

We have begun registering for the Sacraments of First Reconciliation and First Holy Communion for children in School Year 3 or above. Registration Forms are available in the porch. Applications close on 31st October 2018

Northampton Justice and Peace Commission invite you to a conference on Saturday 13th October at St John's Parish Hall in Luton, Sr Patricia Mulhall, cub and Michael Duthie will be sharing their experience for you. ## CAFOD Family Fast Day: Friday 5 October

On Family Fast Day, CAFOD invites us to share in the abundance that God has given us. We are asked to fast, pray and give help to people like Longora, who lives in a remote village in Uganda.

The area is so hot and dry, people used to struggle to get enough clean water to survive. Thanks to the generosity of parishioners in England and Wales, CAFOD has made sure Longora and her neighbours now have a reliable supply of clean, safe water.

On Family Fast Day (Friday 5 October), CAFOD invites us to eat simply – perhaps having a bowl of soup instead of a meal – and give the money we save to help people like Longora. Please collect your Fast Day envelope from the Church this week and give what you can.

Lectionary for Mass

Marriage was part of God's plan from the very beginning of creation. Today's First Reading (Genesis 2:18-24) opens with a religious reflection on the creation of woman. The context for her creation is the simple proclamation that "it is not good that the man should be alone. I will make him a helpmate." Through the specific body imagery of this story, a clear message emerges that man and woman complement each other. Through the bond that joins them together they become one body": "This is why a man leaves his father and mother and joins himself to his wife, and they become one body."

In the Gospel (Mark 10:2-6), Jesus continues journeying towards Jerusalem. Some scholars of the Jewish Law pose a question to Jesus about divorce. In the Book of Deuteronomy 24:1, Moses allowed a man to divorce his wife if "he is later displeased with her and finds in her something indecent." Legal scholars of that time argued passionately over what concrete circumstances would permit such a decision.

Without entering into the disputes, Jesus returns to God's original intent in creating man and woman by quoting the passage in the First Reading. God intends the two to "become one body." In effect, Jesus says that from the creation of the world, marriage is meant to establish absolute permanency and a deep unity. This bond is never to be broken. In doing so, Jesus makes a commitment to the quality of man and woman. While Jewish tradition allowed a man to divorce his wife, by returning to God's original plan for man and woman to become "one body," Jesus rejects divorce and raises the status of the woman, who is an equal partner to the man.

Liturgy and Life

- (1) The Lord God created woman out of man to be "a helpmate." How can the Church help husbands and wives form a partnership in their marriage?
- (2) How can your parish reach out to those society casts away to follow Jesus' example of embracing the children?
- (3) When do you thank God for having blessed you?
